The old cemetery located between Maudlin Street and the Dublin Road contained some 13th century coffin shaped slabs (Carrigan, Vol III). It was once the site of a church that would have served the Magdalen hospital for lepers. The churchyard was the site of burial for many clergy men and citizens of Kilkenny. The earliest inscription found on a tombstone is from 1699.

The numbering of the graves by Rev. Clohosey started at the south-eastern corner near the Dublin Road (Tidmarsh Tomb) and continued in a line of roughly two tombs to the south western corner (1-22). He then returned to the south eastern corner and continued in double parallel lines (23 – 51) moving a little northwards each time.

In perpetual Remembrance of the man

At a Public Meeting of the Citizens of Kilkenny held in the Assembly Room, Tholsel*, the Mayor in the Chair, it was proposed by Wm. Kealy Esq. T.C. seconded by John Callanan Esq., T.C., and unanimously adopted — Resolved that the distinguished services of Doctor Robert Cane to his native city, his pre-eminence as an Irish patriot and his qualities of head and heart have so endeared his memory to all creeds and classes that we deem it our duty as his fellow citizens to erect over his grave a suitable memorial of his devotion to the cause of Faith and Fatherland.

Signed William Kenealy, Mayor, Chairman
John Hogan, Ormonde House, Secretary,
